

LEADERSHIP INSTITUTE FOR ACADEMIC LIBRARIANS

Learn how to effectively lead a contemporary academic library

IMPROVE AND DEEPEN YOUR LEADERSHIP SKILLS

Is your library positioned to meet current and future challenges? Amid a lingering pandemic and ongoing efforts to confront racial injustice, academic librarians must be confident in their leadership skills. To support your professional growth, Harvard Graduate School of Education (HGSE) Professional Education presents the Leadership Institute for Academic Librarians. In this interactive five-day course, you will gain the knowledge, insights, and strategies you need to improve your leadership capabilities and help your library thrive.

NURTURE AND LEAD A DIVERSE CULTURE OF HIGH PERFORMANCE

This high-impact program will help you gain solid, practical skills to enhance your leadership effectiveness and management capacity. Working alongside Harvard faculty and a community of your peers, you will investigate topics including driving transformational change, creating a culture of high performance and engagement, and advancing diversity, equity, and inclusion.

Specifically, you will:

- Explore the factors that improve—and inhibit—your leadership skills
- Increase your leadership effectiveness in ways that drive innovation and generate lasting impact
- Develop strategies to address short- and long-term challenges within your library
- Participate in meaningful reflection and professional renewal among a supportive community of colleagues

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

This program is designed for:

- College and university librarians with management and leadership responsibilities
- Library deans, directors, unit heads, and their direct reports
- Non-library campus leaders whose work impacts library-related functions

SCHEDULE AND FORMAT

Five days, on campus in Cambridge, Massachusetts

Pre-program orientation and post-program follow-up session are both virtual.

Upon successful completion of this program, you will receive a certificate of participation and a letter confirming clock hours of instruction.

FACULTY

Alex R. Hodges

Member of the Faculty of Education
Librarian and Director,
Monroe C. Gutman Library,
HGSE

TUITION

$4,450 per person

